

James, a new design store inside a 1930s bungalow in Austin.

SHOPPING

A Chic Shop Opens Inside an Austin Bungalow

Interior designer Meredith Ellis opens her first store inside a charming Austin bungalow

CREDITS

Posted July 31, 2015

Austin recently got a chic new style source with the debut of home shop James. Set in a 1930s bungalow in the city's Design District, the showroom is the brainchild of interior designer Meredith Ellis, who moved back to her home state in 2010 after stints in New York and Los Angeles.

The garden room.

The 1,400-square-foot space feels more like a friend's house, with vignettes in each of the six rooms showcasing the furniture, textiles, lighting, antiques, art, and accessories on offer. Products include fabrics and wallpaper from Kathryn M. Ireland and Pintura Studio, Bunny Williams Home furniture, custom-made pieces, rugs, and pillows upholstered in vintage textiles. Large swatches and bespoke furniture in the fabric room give shoppers a chance to really envision what custom-made pieces will look and feel like.

The living room.

James, 1411 West 6th Street, Austin, Texas; jamesshowroom.com

Explore

News

Top Posts

Shopping

Stores Showrooms

Contributor:&Nbsp

PIN

SHARE

TWEET

Around the Web

Powered By Zergnet

5 Golden Rules of Home Organization

About.com

3 Easy Rug Hacks You'll Definitely Want To Try

Thesnug.com

The Homemade Shelves You Need In Your Home

eHow.com